Accommodations

This presents a considerable problem as, with the exception of the Faculty Club, all motels and hotels are some distance from the campus. The Faculty Club has only fourteen beds, eight in four twin-bedded rooms, and six in three twin-bedded suites. The doubles are $11 for each occupant and the suites $18 for each occupant. Would those who are coming without cars, and who would like to stay on campus and be willing to share a room if not coming with a spouse, write immediately to Peter Stansky, Department of History, Stanford, CA 94305, indicating which days they wish to stay and if they will take a more expensive room if only it is available. He will inform them if they have secured a room at the Faculty Club.

A list of other accommodations is provided as an insert. You will be responsible for making your own reservations. Indicate that you are attending a conference at Stanford which should secure a special rate. Only the Holiday Inn has a shuttle service to campus—indicate that you will be using this when making your reservation.

Parking

On Friday, April 9, you may park in the pay lot (50¢) behind the Main Library. On Saturday, April 10, you may park in any legal place.
